For 1,000 years, up until the 10th century, Gyeongju was the capital of the Shilla dynasty. Nearly 1,000 years later, its an open-air museum masquerading as a small, provincial town littered with ancient rubble. ○ Morning – Seoul

Almost flattened by Japanese and Manchu invasions in the 16th & 17th centuries, most of Seoul's cityscape is modern. This morning, visit the Gyeongbok Palace and National Folk Museum.

○ Afternoon Tea

Ancient Koreans considered it a way of life and the "Dado" tea drinking ceremony is more about manners and graceful courtesy than drinking the tea itself. Learn the proper way to bow, serve and sip tea in the time honoured ritual.

A spectacular extravaganza of fine dining, folk music on ancient instruments, intricate traditional dance and exciting magic performances taking you on an mesmerizing trip back in time. Try your luck afterwards in the Casino Paradise.

Day 5

○ Korean Folk Village

Korean Folk Village offers a unique glimpse into Korea of the 16th century. A living museums of 260 buildings from the Chosun era, here in a reconstructed farmhouse, residences of the nobility and other buildings of several centuries ago, a flourishing community of potters, millers, blacksmiths, pipe-makers and other craftsmen continue to work as Korean ancestors did. Eat traditional Korean food and visit the work-shops where you can not only purchase ceramics but make them yourself.

○ Evening - A musical farewell feast

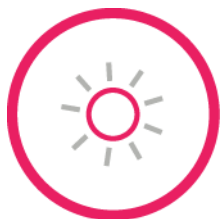

Your time in Korea is drawing to a close but one final treat awaits; NANTA. Literally translated as random drumbeats, its an exciting non verbal performance of reckless rhythms that dramatizes traditional Korean percussion (samullori). But tonight the percussions have been replaced with drums improvised from kitchen utensils. Moving back and forth from cooking to pounding their rhythmic cadences, the kitchen crew creates visual humor and fun along with a culinary feast to share with the group in celebration of the time you have spent in Korea.
